Angela Wilson

Works with those who are experiencing an unexpected change.

Who have been retrenched, resigned, fired or now retired and are feeling lost, stuck and don't know how to find meaning and purpose in life again?

Hi, I'm Angela the founder of Career Design Studio, a global transitional journey for women who are experiencing an unexpected change in their career. My signature program is designed for women to discover their next chapter and once and for all uncover the meaning and purpose of life.

I am not your usual career coach who talks about resumes or interview tips. I like to go deep about career crisis' and how a person is internally experiencing their unexpected change. Holding space for those who feel lost, stuck, somewhere between an ending and a new beginning.

Often brought in to clean up the mental, physical, emotional and spiritual mess, women find themselves in after the chaos of change.

I can quickly spot the relevant negative patterns, life themes and obstacles holding her back.

My sessions leave you feeling inspired, challenged and clear about your next step on your career journey.
